

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The claimed invention involves a novel preparation comprising a dispersion of wax and silver particles that is effective for reducing bacteria on surfaces. The surface preparation according to the present invention comprises particles of silver dispersed in wax. A method for making the surface preparation according to the present invention includes combining a supply of wax with a supply of silver particles.